

Holi Dance Competition 2009

India Forum Inc.

CULTURE TRADITION HERITAGE

Holi is an ancient festival of India originally known as 'Holika'. It is celebrated in different forms and traditions from one region to another. Some of the popular traditions are: Playing with dry and wet colors, lighting of a bon fire for Holika Dahan where an Effigy of Holika, the devil minded sister of demon King Hiranyakashyap is placed in the bonfire and burnt, symbolizing the triumph of good over evil. Drinking Thandai laced with Bhang, meeting and greeting friends and relatives, exchanging sweets and gifts is also an integral part of Holi celebrations.

IFI.....

Since 1975, India Forum Inc has been serving the cultural and community needs of the Indian Community. As a nonprofit organization, the goals of India Forum are to facilitate high quality events at top notch venues for the Indian Community in Baltimore Area. These events celebrate the festivals important to the immigrant community and provide them an identity in the society that helps them thrive.
